Call for a Web Developer

Position: Part-time Web developer & web graphic designer

Start Date: flexible, between September- November 2014

Duration: 4-8 months

Location: work from home

Hours: part-time, 5-20 hours per month

Remuneration: unpaid; non financial benefit of having fully covered attendance at World Student Christian Federation – Europe events

About us

World Student Christian Federation – Europe (http://wscf-europe.org/). We are a small umbrella NGO having member movements across Europe. Our Berlin-based staff, together with a group of motivated volunteers, works for our members and interested people to realize our vision of just and peaceful communities in our societies. We work with young people and students to create bridges across barriers of religion, Christian denominations, nationality and gender. We raise awareness of key issues of our times and educate and empower youth. Can you help us make our vision have tangible impact?

The role

We are looking for a web developer that will be responsible for launching our enterprise to move our existing printed journal, Mozaik (http://wscf-europe.org/resources/mozaik/), online. The platform for the online journal is yet to be negotiated, so you have the chance to participate in the process from its very beginning, and make real impact on how our online presence will look like. This unpaid volunteering opportunity with real hands on experience and responsibility for the whole project will let you develop an interesting and challenging project from the scratch, as well as will add a sparkle to your CV.

What will you do?

You will create an online platform for our journal Mozaik. You will be responsible for design as well as workability and user-friendliness of the platform. You will test the platform together with the WSCF-E staff and volunteers, and will act as moderator during the first 2 months of the launch of the platform as part of the usability testing.
What should you have?

Experience requirements: entry to mid-level. Our successful candidate needs to be enthusiastic, committed and skillful; know the basics of website development and have relevant experience in it. The candidate should be able to demonstrate his/her works; well-developed study projects will be accepted as relevant experience.

A successful candidate should commit to dedicate at least 20 hours a month (at least 5 hours/week) to the task of the platform development, so that the platform is ready for its launch on November 1st.

A candidate can live anywhere in Europe and work from home. Most communication with the superiors (WSCF-E staff and the European Regional Committee, as well as the Editor-in-Chef of the Mozaik) will take place via emails and Skype, and if needed, meetings in Berlin can be arranged.
