

International Youth Conference:
“(I)migrant:
perspectives of minority integration in Europe”
7-13 October, Ireland

The conference aims to achieve the following objectives:

- to explore alternative solutions to combat hate speech and promote more inclusive and tolerance practices and policies towards migrants and refugees;
- to train new leaders and empower youth activism in identifying and overcoming violence and xenophobic tendencies;
- to exchange and create new tools and good practices offline and online advocacy and campaigning at local and regional context;
- to influence the mainstream public opinion by new positive narratives and sharing from migrants’ stories;
- to explore and spread official statistics and research on many socio-economic and cultural factors that migration positively contributes to and brings enormous added-value to our societies;
- to create a network of young activists that will work together more efficiently to improve the flow of information and facilitate common activities and campaigns.
